Yepper, has nothing to do with an 'interest' in a proceeding, so whatever 'expertise' I might have acquired is a non-sequitur. It only infers that one can understand/interpret facets of an 'issue/docket', follow it, and make an 'informed' comment.

Interest implies just that, a 'curiosity' of an issue/docket. Case in point, the 5.5 hours of solar snowflakes, who had an 'interest' but no real expertise.

Maybe I am trying to expand my 'expertise' in the 'inner workings' of the PUC? Remember, no one can have too much knowledge in anything, always something new to learn...

Expertise has nothing to do with demonstrating a direct and substantial interest in a proceeding.

Expertise? Yeah right. That's why I had to file suit to become a named party?

Don't say one thing and do another. When he/PUKE walks the walk, things will change. Otherwise, as your 'employer', we want to know whats going on.

Maybe we should bring back the tv show 'Get Smart' and put your activities under the 'cone of silence'?

You can maintain your opinions while still being tactful. I recommended that you prioritize your opinions and focus on issues of greater significance. The internal administrative policies and budget of the PUCN are already subject to audit and involve dollar amounts that have negligible impact on Nevadans. Your time and attention is better spent elsewhere.

Over the years, you have acquired an expertise in certain areas of utility regulation, and, as I told you, I think that it's unfortunate that you are wasting that expertise on silly issues instead of focusing on proceedings at the PUCN and Legislature that have significant and widespread effects.

I never asked you to give up your opinions or views. I merely asked you why I should continue to engage in conversation with you, given that our conversations, though time-consuming, don't appear to be having any positive effect on your public interactions with and regarding the PUCN.

As I stated the s'meter fiasco made energy centric publications.

Nonetheless, I won't give up my opinions/views at any level, in order to talk with you.

As I said over the trespass issue, 'I don't back down' ever.

From what I recall, I said something to the effect of "no one reads your press releases," a statement based on the fact that, as far as I know, no major media outlets have used your press releases as support for a PUCN-related story. However, I don't doubt that you have a following.

With regard to the Legislature, any statement suggesting that you are ineffective as an advocate occurred within the context of you complaining that the Legislature has disregarded and will continue to disregard your concerns related to ratepayer impact.

No, you CLEARLY stated that those in the legislature don't listen to me, because I go after you.

When in fact, there is a bill I requested coming up. Which I suspect will be fully supported by everyone, predicated on the intent and the demographic that it impacts.

So apparently, ONE of them sees past the PUC issue.

Angel,

I did not mean to imply that no one listens to you. I've witnessed you successfully participate in PUCN proceedings as an advocate for consumers on multiple occasions. I was simply sharing my observation that your indiscriminate criticisms of the PUCN are undermining your credibility and effectiveness.

Hey Garrett,

After tawking (NY accent) today and listening to your concerns re: our 'tawks', I don't think that in order to have 'access' to you, I should have to acquiesce my right to express my opinions about PUKE.

So I am going to be channeling Sammy Davis' hit 'I've Got To Be Me'...

Just an FYI, your comment that no one listens to me, just serves to confirm that you aren't aware of changes I have made here in NV, that I don't go around publicizing...

See you on the video monitor.
